Fall Field Day

Groton Plantation

Groton Plantation is one of the premiere wild quail properties in Low Country South Carolina. Groton has a fascinating bobwhite legacy! Originally purchased in 1906 by Robert Dudley Winthrop as his personal quail hunting property, Groton now encompasses 23,000 acres and remains in the Winthrop family. In the 1930's, Herbert Stoddard, one of the original founders of Tall Timbers, provided advice to help improve bobwhite populations on Groton.

Over the past decade, a renewed focus on modern quail management techniques has resulted in outstanding quail hunting on Groton. Come enjoy the day on this beautiful and historic South Carolina quail property!
